

News Of The Balkan War To Date

The following brief summary of the events and developments in the war between Turkey and the Balkan allies has been prepared for the benefit of the passengers on board the Cleveland from the files of the Star-Bulletin, beginning with the date that steamer left Japan.

Jan. 13.—The Great Powers announce that they have decided to occupy the Turkish capital unless the Mussulman comes to terms.

Jan. 14.—Following repeated delays on the part of the Turkish delegates to the peace conference in London, the allies announce that they are preparing to resume hostilities.

Jan. 15.—The ambassadors representing the Great Powers at London met in an attempt to discover some way of averting a resumption of the war.

Jan. 16.—The Turkish cruiser Medjidieh slips through the Greek fleet off the mouth of the Bosphorus and bombards the Greek station on the Island of Syra.

Jan. 17.—Turkey receives the formal note of the powers warning her against further attempts to delay the peace conference in London.

Jan. 18.—The Ottoman refused to yield to the demand for the surrender of Adrianople. Nazim Pasha, ambassador from Turkey to Germany, denounced the attitude of the Powers, which he declared "have favored the allies to the exclusion of all justice."

Jan. 20.—Mussulman authorities offer to cede one-half of Adrianople to the allies. The allies declared that if the offer was made in good faith they would accept, as it "would be but a step to the acquisition of the whole city." The allies announce that they will allow Turkey two weeks from today in which to make definite answer to the terms proposed.

Jan. 21.—Greece expects no difficulty in retaining the city of Salonika and the islands she has seized in the Aegean Sea.

CAMPAIGNERS HERE

various parts of the world where it was thought the two-fold message of the movement would be received with the greatest amount of enthusiasm. Honolulu is the first stopping point on the tour, and from the interest which has been taken by the local business and professional men, it is believed that the campaign in this city will be one of the most successful of the entire tour.

The institutes and meetings which are to be held during the stay of the team in Honolulu are free to all men of the city who care to attend. There will be no collections taken at any of these meetings with the exception of the one which is to be held next Sunday evening, when financial aid will be solicited from those present to help defray the expense of hiring the theatre, paying for the lights, etc.

A number of the men of the city have already asked which of the two institutes they shall attend. In regard to this matter, Mr. Smith thinks that the men should pick out the institute which interests them the most and stick to that choice throughout the campaign. Mr. Smith's institute, which will deal with religious work, will be held in the Odd Fellows' Hall at half-past four o'clock on Friday, Monday and Tuesday, while Mr. Robins' institute, which will deal with social service and boys' work, will be held at the same time and on the same days in the makai pavilion of the Young Hotel.

The opening event of the campaign will be the banquet at half-past six o'clock this evening in the Commercial Club rooms at which time one hundred and fifty of the leading business and professional men of the city will be given an opportunity to meet Messrs. Smith and Robins as well as the members of the International Quartet.

Many of the men of Honolulu know both the speakers and are anxious to renew acquaintances.

The dinner will be presided over by L. Tenney Peck, chairman of the executive committee of the local campaign, and after a brief explanation of the movement, he will introduce Fred B. Smith, who will deliver an address upon the subject: "The Relation of the Business Men and Religion."

Following this talk the quartet will render several selections, after which Raymond Robins will be introduced and will deliver one of his stirring addresses on social service. The guests at the dinner will then be given a chance to personally meet the members of the party and talk with them. Tomorrow morning the campaign will be started in earnest, and nearly every hour of the days during which the team will be in this city will be taken up with institutes, conferences and meetings.

The program for the week of the campaign, beginning today, is as follows:

LAST MID-PACIFIC MAGAZINE THE BEST OF MANY NUMBERS

The Mid-Pacific Magazine for February is now on the news stands, and easily takes the lead over its predecessors. The photographic art gallery in prints in the fore part of the edition rivals the work done in the print shops of some of the larger Eastern magazines.

A number of interesting, well written, articles make their appearance in this issue. One, by Will Sablin, "The Mid-Pacific Carnival" deals, as its title implies with the coming celebration of Washington's Birthday, compares the work that is done down here with the work done for some of the more famous carnivals in Europe and America.

"An Australian's trip to New Guinea," by the Hon. Niel Nielsen, "Soaping a Geyser," by W. D. Westervelt, "Aloha," a poem by Mary Dillingham Frear, and "By Kahului Bay," by H. M. Ayres attract the attention by their method and interest. Other articles, "Hawaii," an Open Port, by Prof. W. A. Bryan, and "Around the Earth with the Moon," "Our Grass House," by J. M. Lygate, "A Woman Painter of the Pacific," by C. W. Eberlein and Australia's Under Ground World, Jenofin Caves, are all conspicuous.

For the advertiser and the public interested in the advertising section of a publication the editor has introduced a new feature, an illustrated advertising section, most attractive in its method of handling, the information business men and firms of this and other cities have to convey.

A unique and smart costume worn recently in Paris was made of chestnut brown velours de laine, trimmed with tiger skin.

Fashionable folks are adopting the new Bulgarian blouse. Some of the blouses are of Bulgarian printed cotton with Bulgarian bolero.

Towels should not be put in the guest room when they are brand new. Use them until they have been laundered several times and lose their stiffness.

The skin of a boiled egg, moistened and applied to a boil, will cause suppuration and relieve soreness in a few hours. It is also an excellent application for a sty or inflamed eyelids.

Ink may be removed from the hands by applications of the juice of a raw tomato or by moistening the end of a phosphorus match and rubbing it on the stain, or by a few drops of oxalic acid in water.

When the eyes ache they can be relieved by closing the lids for five minutes. If they have a burning sensation bathe them with hot water to which a dash of witch hazel has been added; if the whites are yellow and the pupils dull strict attention should be paid to the diet.

To wind a curtain, remove it from the brackets, wind it up by hand and then put it into the brackets and pull it out full length. Repeat if necessary.

If the baby is too little to hold playthings, fasten them by a string suspended above him in such a position that they will not get out of his reach.

A glass of pure cream or glass of fresh milk, with a salt cracker or a crust of fresh bread, is a good lunch between meals for a hungry convalescent.

SPIN'L MENINGITIS EPIDEMIC NOT FEARED NOW

Army medics are beginning to breathe freely again, for indications are that the danger of an epidemic of spinal meningitis, spread through the single case discovered on the transport Sheridan just as the troops were decked here nine days ago, has passed. The Fourth Cavalry recruit stricken down with the dread disease has almost entirely recovered under prompt and efficient treatment at the department hospital at Fort Shafter, and at the quarantine camp established at Schofield Barracks, there have been no cases reported.

The surgeons were enabled to inject the new serum for cure of spinal meningitis almost as soon as the case reached Shafter, for a supply was carried in the Sheridan's medical stores, and was rushed to the hospital with the man.

The germs of the disease entered through the nose and throat, and observation has shown that young men are more susceptible than persons fully matured. There was a strong chance, therefore, that the young recruits brought in close personal contact with the sick man during the voyage across might have contracted the disease, but as six or seven days is about the period of incubation, and as no new cases have developed, it looks as though the danger was over. The suspected will be kept in separate barracks until a full two weeks have passed, in order that there may be no possibilities of spreading the disease.

One case was discovered and taken off the ship as the Sheridan was about to sail from San Francisco, and undoubtedly the man who went under as the transport reached Honolulu, was infected from this first case. That there have been no more, is a matter of devout thankfulness to local members of the medical corps.

NOTED SCIENTIST GUEST AT BIG RECEPTION

Dr. Henry A. Pilbry, who has charge of the conchology department of the Philadelphia Academy of Science, and enjoys the distinction of being the most celebrated conchologist in the world, was the guest of compliment this afternoon at a large reception given by Prof. and Mrs. William Alanson Bryan of the College of Hawaii. The affair took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan on Punahoa street, the hours of reception being from four to six. Two hundred cards were issued for the affair and the rooms and garden were thronged throughout the late afternoon.

Ernest Kaal's quintette club, stationed in the palm enclosed lanai, played sweet Hawaiian music throughout the afternoon. Mrs. John Palmer catered, many of the refreshment tables being scattered about beneath the cocoanut trees on the lawn. Terra cotta colored bougainvillea in great jars and vases was effectively used as decorations about the rooms.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and the guest of honor in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. C. Montague Cooke, whose home guest Dr. Pilbry will be during his Hawaiian sojourn. Mrs. A. F. Letson, mother of the hostess, also assisted about the rooms.

Dr. Pilbry has come to Honolulu at the instance of the Bishop Museum to make a thorough conchological survey of the Hawaiian Islands, paying particular attention to the proper grouping and classification of the land shells for which Hawaii is famous. Various scientists at various times have made desultory investigations but it is desired that this survey shall be absolutely authoritative and to that end Dr. Pilbry will spend two months in the islands in the interest of science.

Dr. Pilbry is the man with whom Mrs. Bryan, at that time, Dr. Elizabeth Letson, studied for four years, and he and Mrs. Bryan are now collaborating in the preparation of manuscript for a book on the land and fresh water shells of New York state, which will be published in about six months by the University of the State of New York. Mrs. Bryan's personal collection of land and fresh water shells is a large one and a portion of it was on exhibition this afternoon on the screened lanai.

Another man, well known in scientific circles for his researches along evolutionary lines, who was present this afternoon, was Dr. John Gulick, of this city, who is said to be one of the best versed in the study of evolution, since Darwin. It is interesting to note too that Dr. Gulick's study was much of it devoted to the land shells which are now interesting to Dr. Pilbry.

As this is Dr. Pilbry's first visit to a land where it is summer all winter, today's affair in his honor, was pervaded, as much as possible by the spirit of out-of-doors. What is said to be the first bread-fruit tree ever planted in Honolulu grows on the Bryan place, and the serving of refreshments beneath old avocado, bread fruit and cocoanut trees was a pleasing novelty to the city-bred scientist.

"I inherited this restaurant from my father," "Ah, yes. I knew him. I recognize this old cheese sandwich." Young Doctor: Your pulse is 150. Patient: Impossible, doctor. Young Doctor: Of course. How stupid of me. I was counting both hands together. "Could you support my daughter in the style to which she has been accustomed?" "I have never tried such rigid economy, sir."
